Tuesday Evening Ride

Tuesday Evening Ride

Despite some last minute misgivings that it was a chilly and somewhat windy evening 7 of us turned up at Hornbeam for "Declan's Tuesday Evening Ride". Declan had a plan to go to Brearton via the Greenway and back via Scotton and Farnham. In the event it was agreed to do the ride anticlockwise to finish on the Greenway which worked better in terms of commuter traffic and allowed a finish at the Gardeners Arms. After dropping down to Waterside we headed for Farnham and Scotton. Skirting Brearton we dropped onto a narrow unsignposted road to emerge onto the A61 at the Red Lion South Stainley half a dozen or so miles later. By which time we were using lights. The pace seemed fine for all present and everyone reached the Arrivee together. In the event fears about the weather proved unfounded. Myself and Steve headed home and the rest went for a quick tippie. If you are reading this and are tempted to come along next week you will be made very welcome.
